

RIBA™ & I.W SOCIETY DESIGN & CONSERVATION AWARDS 2020

Entries are now invited for the Design & Conservation Awards Ceremony on Friday 15th May 2020.

RIBA^{IW} ARCHITECTS DESIGN AWARDS 2020

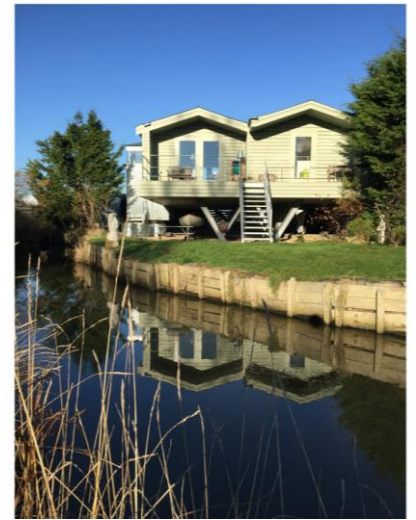

The purpose of the RIBA^{IW} Award is to encourage a high standard of architectural design on the Island (which often misses out on regional and national awards) and will be judged by a panel of three RIBA Chartered Architects.

The nominated project can be a new building of any type, or a conversion, extension or alteration to an existing building that aspires to architectural excellence.

Anyone can nominate a building for this award, and the entry criteria is that the building project must be located on the Isle of Wight and must be designed by a qualified Architect or Architect's practice. The attached nomination form should be accompanied by photographs, before & after completion and drawings of the project and a written explanation/design statement.

Winners will receive a plaque for the building and framed certificates for the Architect and contractor.

This year we are naming two Awards in memory of our RIBA Colleagues and previous Judges; Martin Pearce and Chris Butterworth.

*RIBA IW Residential Buildings Winner 2018
Marsh Road, The Manser Practice*

THE ISLE OF WIGHT SOCIETY DESIGN & CONSERVATION AWARDS 2020

The aim of the Conservation Awards is to encourage a high standard of planning, architecture and the conservation of buildings and their setting on the Island. Entries will be judged mainly on their quality of design and the work overall and also the visual impact on the environment.

*IW Society 2018 Overall Winner
Northwood Cemetery Chapels*

Entries can be a restoration project, a rebuild, an extension to an existing building of architectural merit, small and large scale works ranging from staircases and fountains to Roman excavations, fortifications and landscaping, a new build in character with its surroundings or any combination of these.

The scope of awards has been broadened for 2020 to include entries from, individuals undertaking renovation work or ecology conservation on a building project will be considered. The competition is open to private individuals, corporate bodies, churches and other communities.

All entries will be judged on the visual impact on the environment, on the quality of design and the work overall.

We celebrate two Awards in memory of former members of the IW Society; The Jo Mitchell Award and The Tommy Bodycomb Award.

RIBA™ & THE I.W. SOCIETY DESIGN & CONSERVATION AWARDS 2020

- Instructions for Entry -

The 2020 entry fee is either £25 and includes two tickets to the Awards evening. Entries from Charities or Parish Councils may be exempt, but in this case only one ticket is provided. Some entries may be eligible for both the Design Category & the Conservation Category – only one fee is required.

Each property nominated requires a printed A1 display sheet. If you can produce your own A1 presentation sheet and have it printed to A1 on good quality paper it must be handed to Colman Cotter or Sarah Burdett by 30th April 2020. The prints will then be mounted on the boards supplied by the organisers.

A Photoshop or PDF template can be supplied – please request this by email to iwdca.committee@gmail.com.

If you are not able to produce your own display board we can design and print your A1 for £25. Please select the £50 entry on your nomination form which includes £25 for the design & print. If you just need the sheet printing, then this can be arranged for £12.

Please complete your nomination form electronically and return the attached entry form in PDF Format to iwdca.committee@gmail.com

NB: It is important that the text entered on the nomination form about is accurate and informative as this text will be the description used on the A1 Boards. Please supply before and after photographs of your property with your entry form in order that the judges can view the project prior to the physical site visit. If you have numerous or large files, contact us and we can send a link to our Dropbox account, otherwise please just attach the JPEGs to your entry and email it to iwdca.committee@gmail.com

Payment of the entry fee should be made by electronic transfer (referencing the property name) to:
